eleventh annual fair of the Westchest County Agricultural Society opened yesterday at the old fair grounds east of White Plains. Al-though it is the eleventh annual exhibition of the present society, the fair has been an institution of the county for many years, and the same grounds have been in use for nearly half a century.

The main building of the fair is Floral Hall, a large structure, in which are exhibits of furniture, musical instruments, stuffed animals, preserves pickles and the thousand and one articles classified under the general head of the Women's Industrial Department. Attached to the hall is the Next comes Agricultural Hall, devoted to the exhibition of farm products. A table containing a hundred varieties of potatoes is a study of itself, showing the distinct characteristics of each variety in shape, color and size.

To the lover of animals the cattle show is attractive. After visiting it one goes away considerably enlightened as to the various kinds of sheep, cows and pigs there are in the county, each with excellences peculiar to itself.

The poultry-house contains a splendid collection of fowls, ducks, rabbits and pigeons. This is a noisy department of the fair, where hundreds of roosters are continually trying to crow each other down. There is also a very creditable exhibit of cats—tabbles and toms and kittens.

The dog kennels are in a tent specially erected for their accommodation. There is a good exhibit, and some savage-looking bloodhounds attract a great deal of attention-from a respectful distance. Besides these staple attractions of the exhibition there are many other objects to interest and The Japanese troupe attracts great crowds, and the balloon ascension, trick horses and dogs and fancy bicycle rider all add their quota to make up the greatest show in the county at the present The fair creates a great interest throughout the the various sections meeting here once a year and exchanging greetings. A pessimist has a hard time of it at a country fair. It is difficult to think time of it at a country fair. It is dilicate to this the country is "going to the dogs" with bins of rosy-cheeked apples and heaps of monstrous potatioes and glant ears of corn and sleek cattle and fair pigs surrounding one on every side.

While the horse snow has been given up for this year, trotting takes place on the racetrack every afternoon. For to-morrow the entries are as follows:

THE PIERCE INVESTIGATION CALLED AND AGAIN POSTPONED.

The patience of Mr. Guernsey, the refered investigation of the management of the Westchester Temporary Home for Destitute Children under Superintendent James W. Pierce, was tried once more yesterday morning, when upon calling the court to order it was found that the lawyers for the complainants were absent. Stephen S. Marshall was in attendance at the Democratic Judiciary Convention in Brooklyn, while Henry C Henderson was busy with the Republican Congress Convention in White Plains. Mr. Guernsey called attention to the fact that the liestigation was dragging along at too great a length; that the lawyers for the Home were present, ready to go on with the proceedings, and despite the unpleasant weather the women of the Board of Managers were in attendance. It was agreed, however, to adjourn the investigation to Monday, October 19. It is thought that it will take five or six days longer to finish the case.

In the Special Term of the Supreme Court, before Justice Dykman, application was made for a writ of certitorari against J. Haffield Newman, David Haight and Michael J. Martin, assessors of the town of Mount Pleasant. The petition was made by William Rockefeller, and set forth that the petitioner was the owner of 621 acres of land in Mount Pleasant, which the assessors had placed upon the assessment roll at an assessed value of $1,023,482, and urging that said valuation was illegal; unjust and unfair, and that the assessment had been made by one member, instead of the whole Board, as the law requires. The petition asked that the Court require the action of the assessors to be reviewed by a referce.

A similar petition was also made to the same court by John D. Rockefeller, of the same town, against the same assessors. In this case the amount of the assessment complained against is $24,900.

The Judge granted the petition in both cases and appointed Franklin Couch of Peekskill, referee.

TAMSEN REPLIES TO MEYER.

Sheriff Tamsen yesterday made public two letter which he considers sufficient reply to the state ments made by Peter F. Meyer regarding the diner of the third panel of the Sheriff's jury held at he Hotel Savoy last February, to which, it was said, the Sheriff brought uninvited guests. The by Tamsen, and in it he suggests the names of six friends whom he wished invited to the dinner. The suggestion was made at the request of Mr. Weil He informed Mr. Well that several might send their regrets, and, as four did so, he sent four ther names to Mr. Meyer in the place of those who had declined. Referring to the statement made by Mr. Meyer that he received a letter from he Sheriff's advertising agency, soliciting advertisements, the Sheriff says this letter was merely ent out by the Sheriff's employes in the course of business, and similar letters are sent out by the thousands to people who have extensive advertislog.

As to the removal of Mr. Meyer and others from the third panel, the Sheriff says, he believes in rotation in office so far as the Sheriff's jury is con-

ALLEGED TROUBLE IN A BRIDGE COMPANY.

Trouble is said to have arisen between certain stockholders of the New-York and New-Jersey Bridge Company, which has led to a split and the formation of two factions. The New-Jersey subscribers, it is said, have paid into the company some $90,600, ...nd refuse to advance any more, on the plea that they cannot succeed in having their wishes furniture and office effects of the company are to be sold to satisfy a judgment of a little more than $30 It is expected that a settlement of the difficulty will soon be reached. The New-York and New-Jersey Bridge Company is really composed of two companies, one formed under New-Jersey laws, and the other under New York laws. They entered into contracts with each York laws. They entered into contracts with each other as entirely distinct companies. There is also a third company, the Atlantic Corstruction, of New-Jersey, which has furnished most of the $9,000 so far contributed for the building of the bridge. R. Floyd Clarke until recently was the controlling influence in the Board of Directors of this company, it is he, so it is said, who has caused the friction. A project for the consolidation of these companies will be brought up at the next meeting of the stockholders.

BRITISH SHIPBUILDERS DISAPPOINTED.

THEIR FAILURE TO GET CHINESE ORDERS-THE FRENCH MANOEUVRES-MILITARY MASTS. "The shipbuilders of the Clyde and the Thames and other parts of Great Britain," says "The Londen Shipping World," "are scratching their heads over the fact that the Chinese order for three new atmored cruisers has been given to the Vulcan Company, at Stettin, Germany, and not one to any of the British firms." On the other hand, the German contemporaries are crowing themselves hearse over this business victory, and are, bythe-way, attributing the success of the Stettin firm to the splendid impression made by Germans

upon Li Hung Chang. British shipbuilders have, however, been busy lately in preparing tenders for battleships and crulsers for the Japanese and Spanish navies. Although somewhat early to say how the orders will be placed, the assumption is that Japan will order a battleship built in England, and that Spain will give an order for two cruisers. Perhaps! But Japan is seriously contemplating having two battleships built in the United States.

It is admitted that in addition to the usual lessons respecting the value of torpedoboats they show that the defects so much deplored and severely criticised at the mobilization of the British Navy are equally common in vessels belonging to the French. The reports will necessarily embrace the grounding of the Magerta, the boiler explosion on the Filibustier and the collision between the torpedo-boats Chevaller and the Audacieux. The letter had her bow severely damaged, and although kept affoat for some little time by means of her pumps, she finally foundered, going down by the bow. If they do things in France as they do in this country, there will follow a series of courts of inquiry, and, perhaps, courts-martial and suspensions of officers.

A foreign naval officer deplores the adoption of the military mast, and declares that "It will be one of the first duties of a warship to shoot away with its heavy guns the military mast of its adversary. As one well-directed shot will send the mast tumbling, it is not probable that any ship will come out of an engagement with its military mast standing." Many would, no doubt, accept this theory in a serious manner if they did not give thought to the fact that "heavy-gun" ammunition is far too precious to risk throwing it away on such a comparatively small target as is offered by a military mast such the sum of the structures, but are built up of steel, it would be structures but are built up of steel, it would "send the mast tumbling." the usual lessons respecting the value of torpedo unable to find anything definite regarding any one named Kielgaet except that a man of that name, who said he was a bartender, had occupied a room in the house of a Mrs. Bittner, at No. 306 West Thirtyfirst-st., for one week. The woman said that she had not seen Kielgaet for several days and did not know what had become of him. She said that she knew nothing of his circumstances.

The Park said that he noticed no one loitering about that part of the Park where the note was found. At 6 o'clock the police of the West Onehundredth-st. station and the West One-nundredand-twenty-fifth-st, station received orders to look for any loiterers along the river front.

A LARGE DISPLAY OF FURNITURE.

Cowperthwait & Co., dealers in furniture, carpets and general house-furnishing goods, No. 104 West Fourteenth-st., having placed in their store a full and complete line of the newest and latest styles, are now displaying these goods in their large and well-appointed building just west of the Sixth-ave elevated station. Six floors of the building are given up by the company for the purpose of display-ing its different lines and are at present filled with attractive articles for furnishing homes. The top floor is taken up entirely with bedroom furniture made from oak, birdseye maple, curly birch and mahogany. Birdseye maple is sald to be a favorite with buyers this season, and the company sells more sets made from this wood than from any other kind, A specialty in this department is a seven-plece bedroom suite consisting of bed, bureau, wash tand, table, two chairs and a rocker. These suite sell all the way from $24 to $65, depending on th sell all the way from $24 to $55, depending on the kind of wood chosen. On the fourth floor is displayed a large assortment of dining-room sets and odd pieces. Oak and mahogany are the prevailing woods used on this floor, with the Flemish finish in evidence. Noticeable among other sets on this floor are several in the Colonial style, also sets in Flemish oak. Frices on these were given at from $100 upward. Sets of this description consist of a table, nive chairs, an armehalr, sideboard and china cabmet. There are many pieces delicately carved, but such work brings high prices.

Helow on the third floor is found an interesting line of beautiful and expensive parior furniture. Here can be seen all the latest novelties. Handsome Turkish suites are much in demand this fail, and everything in this style is to be found among the articles shown on this floor. A large line of odd reception and corner chairs, together with lamps, shades, pedestals and clocks, also forms an interesting sight for visitors. The first and second floors of the building are used for the sale of carpets of every style, also chiffonnieres, dressing cases, parlor tables and cabinets in mahogany and with the Vernis Martin finish. White enamel and brass bedsteads occupy the basement, with the various styles of white enamel bedroom furniture to match. The goods offered for sale by Cowperthwait & Co, are all of the best make and the terms are made to suit the buyer. the buyer.

A BROADWAY JEWELLER ROBBED. HE CAUSES THE AUREST OF TWO ALLEGED CUS-TOMERS, WHO WERE CAUGHT AFTER

A HUNT. Two young men, well dressed, entered Jattele's jewelry store, Broadway and Twenty-seventh-st., about 7 o'clock last night and asked to see some diamonds. Venny, Ve diamonds. Henry N. Levy, the salesman, placed everal trays containing diam and stude and earrings before them, but none seemed to suit the young men, and they left the store.

A few minutes later Levy discovered that a diamond stud valued at $90 was missing from one of the trays. He informed Special Officer Enright, of the Metropolitan Hotel, and together they m a tour of the number of saloons on Sixth-ave. In one at Thirtieth-st, they saw two young men whom Levy recognized as the pair who had been inspecting the jewelry. Enright stationed Levy at the side door while he went out on the avenue to find a policeman. As soon as he left the store the two men walked out and started up Sixth-ave., followed by Levy. At Thirty-third-st, and Brondway Levy asked Policeman Hearty to arrest them. Hearty selzed both of them by the collars, and one shook himself loose and started to run down Broadway, but he had only gone a few yards when Enright selzed him.

At the West Thirtieth-st, station the prisoners described themselves as James Murphy, twenty-seven years old, an engraver, and refused his address, and Herbert Roberts, twenty-seven years old, a painter, of No. 1.622 Third-ave. Both admitted having been in the jewelry store, but denied the charge of larceny. The stud was not found in the possession of either. Roberts had a pawnticket for a pair of diamond cuff buttons upon which $20 had been loaned. Both were locked up. a tour of the number of saloons on Sixth-ave.

TO PROSECUTE CAPTAIN WISWELL.

MEMBERS OF COMPANY A, 18TH REGIMENT, THREATEN TO DO SO IF FUNDS ARE NOT RETURNED.

A committee composed of four officers of Company A. 13th Regiment, met last night at the Armory, in Brocklyn, to try to get Captain Wiswell to make good an alleged deficiency of $560 in his accounts. After a session lasting over an hour no settlement was reached. The officers of the company assert the money was tied up in the firm of Tebbetts & Roberts, by whom he was employed, and which went into the hands of a receiver. The captain has given to the officers a check for $100 in part payment, which falls due October 3. The committee has been directed by Company A to prosecute Captain Wiswell, and they will proceed against him immediately unless he makes a settlement.

FLINT'S FINE FURNITUES

A TAPESTRY MARVEL Tapestries usually are but three or four feet in length. What do you think of one whose dimensions are twenty-eight feet loag and eight feet wide? A specimen we had made in France and just received is now hung on the wall just over our offices on our rez de chausse. The design is woven in such a way that, though forming one large scene, it can also be cut in panels, each having for its subject some old game in which youth and maidens sport, Treated with the softness of color and mystical poetic sentiment of a sixteenth century Flemish painting. What an exquisite old Dutch or Flemish room could be made by panelling the walls with this.
